

Chestnut Newsletter - Friday 23rd October

Lovely to meet with you this week and catch up about your child/ren. Your support is invaluable. We have covered a great deal of work this half term and a week's rest is just what is needed. Please note that there is no home learning this week but please continue to read with your child. As you know your child will come in their PE kits when it is their day to do PE. Chestnuts have theirs on Monday and Wednesday as we are no longer doing Forest School on a Thursday now. Our focus after half term is Geography and DT so we will not be covering History and Art until January.

English

We have just completed writing a poem called 'And what I am is me.'
After half term we are looking at a travel journal called On Safari.

Maths

In maths we are continuing with addition and subtraction and then will be moving on to shape.

Science

Our next topic is Senses and we will be labelling body parts and thinking about the importance of our senses and what it might be like if we have a loss of one of our senses.

Christmas!!!

There I've said it! It is almost November after all. Mrs Kinsey and I have selected a play and after half term we will be practising the songs and then parts will follow after that. Please bear with us while we organise this, but we will try to give you as much notice as possible so that you know what part your child will play.

It only remains for me to wish you a fabulous and restful half term

Many thanks

Mrs Pape
